Senator Lucas Flays Congress, Dewey In Talk at Dem Rally

Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, speaking at a Democratic rally in Mansfield last night, flayed the 80th congress as the "worst in history" and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as "a tool of Wall street interests."

The principal speaker at a major Democratic rally in the John Simpson auditorium, Sen. Lucas addressed about 500 persons.

Other speakers included Robert W. Levering of Mt. Vernon, candidate for congress from the 17th district; State Deputy Auditor O P. Van Schoik, Ralph Locher, who was legal secretary to Frank J. Lausche when he was governor; and William A. Calhoun, president of the Richland county Young Democratic club.

"If Dewey is elected president, he will start in where Herbert Hoover left off in 1932," Lucas said

"Hoover promised you two chickens in every pot," Lucas remarked. "Now," he added, "the 80th Republican congress has put two veterans in every garage."

He charged that the congress ignored the problems of the country. "And the work of that congress was endorsed by Dewey," he added.

Truman has done more to clean up communism than all the Republican investigating committees together, Lucas asserted. He charged that most of the nation's communists are in New York and California, of which the Republican standard-bearers are governors. He challenged: "Show me one thing that Dewey has done to clean out the communists in New York, where they all live."

He said he had sat on investigating committees and knows how they operate. "The purpose of those committees is to smear," Lucas charged, "and to get the minds of the people off problems facing the country."

He said the Republicans claim they "are going to give you unity." He said the Republican candidates "use a lot of nice phrases, but don't say anything."

"But you know where Truman stands on the issues of the day," Lucas told his audience. Lucas said it was better to have the type of frank disunity that exists in the Democratic party than the false unity of the Republican party.

Lucas then turned to an incident in his home state, when a railroad engineer backed up the Dewey train for a short distance and quoted Dewey as saying: "This is the first engineer I've had who is a lunatic."

Lucas said that Dewey further said the engineer ought to be shot at sunrise if anybody had been hurt. Lucas charged that that in-

New War Flares In Holy Land

Israeli Forces, Egyptians Clash

BULLETIN

HAIFA —(UP)— United Nations truce headquarters announced today that the government of Israel had rejected a truce headquarters order to cease fire in southern Palestine.

By BENN FELLER

TEL AVIV — (INS) — Israeli military spokesmen claimed major successes against the Egyptians today in a new flare-up of full-scale war in the Negev desert area of southern Palestine.

Heavy fighting that followed an Egyptian army attack on a Jewish convoy was marked by aerial combats.

An Israeli fighter patron intercepted three Egyptian Spitfire fighter planes heading north. One was hit and when last seen was losing altitude and expelling smoke. The others were thrown back.

A Tel Aviv announcement said that the Israeli armed action was designed to secure an open road to Jewish settlements in the Negev which were endangered by an Egyptian offensive.

AIRPORTS ATTACKED

It added that Egyptian communications in this area now have been cut off.

A series of Israeli bombings last night bracketed the Egyptian posts of Beersheba and Gaza, both of whose airports were attacked successfully.

At stake in the rapidly developing battle is control of the Negev area of southern Palestine, center of a three-way political dispute.

There was general fear that the fighting heralded an end to the truce ordered by the United Nations.

Claim Vishinsky Offends Neutrals

PARIS — (AP) — Western power officials said today Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky had alienated the Security Council "neutrals" by challenging their motives in attempting to mediate the Berlin problem.

A French delegate said Vishinsky had pulled a "boner." Other western spokesmen said he had pushed the "neutrals" over to their side by charging a trap was being baited for Russia.

Vishinsky refused to answer questions on the Berlin blockade and the four-power Moscow negotiations, repeating the Russian argument that the security council had no business discussing Berlin.

The questions were put to all four parties to the Berlin dispute by Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia, acting chairman of the Security Council during the Berlin debate. The U. S., Britain and France promised their answers at next Tuesday's council session.

Meanwhile, Poland charged President Truman "is a prisoner of a military clique, and that when he wanted to send an envoy to Moscow he was stopped."

The assertion was made by Julius Katz-Suchy of Poland in the disarmaments subcommittee of the United Nations assembly.

Katz-Suchy apparently was referring to the recent plan of Mr. Truman to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow to explain the U. S position on atomic energy to Generalissimo Stalin.

Secretary of State Marshall vetoed the plan and Vinson did not make the trip.

Safety Leap Causes Death

PORTSMOUTH —(INS)— A 60-year-old mother of six children was the victim today of a highway accident in which she narrowly escaped death only to meet it an instant later.

Mrs. Goldie Brown of Allentown was killed outright on U. S 52 east of Wheelersburg yesterday when she fell in the highway while dodging a truck

A second truck struck the prostrate woman, killing her instantly.

REDS RULED ILLEGAL

Cold Blast Moving Into Ohio

A near-wintry week end was forecast today by the weatherman.

The chilliest weather since last spring was moving into Ohio this afternoon from the Canadian northwest, birthplace of cold waves

Strong northwest winds were expected to whip the cold into the state late today, dropping the mercury to about 40 tonight and near freezing Sunday night. A low reading of 34 was seen by Sunday night in most of Ohio.

Scattered showers are expected to fall tonight and Sunday. The mercury stood at 67 at noon today.

The weatherman said killing frosts would occur tonight or Sunday night over most of the middlewest, but weather experts said the cold would help crops rather than harm them.

"At this stage virtually all of the corn has been laid by and the cold will help to dry out the kernels," the weather bureau said.

However, forecasters warned motorists that temperatures, as far south as northern Illinois, would drop low enough to bring damage to automobiles tonight if they were not in garages.

Snow fell in parts of Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Temperatures in some areas in the chilly belt dropped as much as 40 degrees. Dickinson, N. D., reported an early morning reading of 22 Snow fell at Cheyenne, Wyo., where the mercury tumbled to 24.

Boy Killed At Willard

WILLARD — A five-year-old visitor to Willard was killed late yesterday when a car ran over him several feet from where his companions were playing.

The boy, Joseph Roppa, of Midland, Pa., who was visiting his aunt, Mrs. Marion Carmean here, ran in front of an automobile driven by Walter A. Reel, 63, of Columbus.

Investigating Officer A. J. Lowrey said the boy dashed out of a playground into the path of the vehicle. In his report he judged that the vehicle was being driven at a slow rate of speed

Reel, visiting his daughter, Mrs. D. E Stambrook, is being held for questioning by Willard police.

Dr J. D. Bradish, Huron county coroner, said the youth died of a "fractured skull."

The body will be taken to Midland, Pa., where the youth's parents were notified of the mishap.

Urge Spain As Ally

MADRID — (INS) — Representative J. Frank Wilson, (D Tex.) today described his five-man congressional committee visiting Spain as "most—if not all—" favorable to enlisting Spain as an ally.

Wilson, in an exclusive interview told International News Service:

"Spain is as good if not better than some of our allies.

"We need Spain because she is on our side against communism.

"We need to enlist everyone we can in our fight against communism."

Wilson has been studying economic and military conditions in Spain with a four man committee to determine what assistance the Spanish government needs. The committee is accompanied by an Air Force expert, Col. James Chapman.

The congressman said that most of his group favors resumption of full diplomatic relations between the United States and Spain as an initial step. He explained:

"When there is a robber in the house, one doesn't yell 'please let so-and-so help me.'"

Other members of the congressional party are Omar Burleson, (D., Tex.), Ed Gosset, (D., Tex.), and Laurie C. Battle, (D., Ala.)

BARGE FEARED LOST

SEATTLE —(AP)— Coast Guard headquarters reported early today a 105-foot self-propelled barge with five crewmen aboard had SOS'ed it was sinking in heavy seas 85 miles east of Cape. St. Elias, Alaska.

Woos Votes In Crawford

Herbert Talks At Bucyrus, Galion

On a swing through seven towns in the eighth congressional district, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert spoke yesterday at Galion and Bucyrus.

At Galion public square, Gov. Herbert told a crowd of 1,000 persons that 3,000 beds have been added to Ohio's mental institutions during his administration. He called for an end to communism and a complete defeat of the New Deal in November

He was introduced by Congressman Frederick C. Smith.

Lieutenant Governor Paul Herbert blasted at the Democratic gubernatorial candidate Frank J. Lausche for failure to improve Ohio highways while he was governor.

A luncheon for the governor's party was held at the Hotel Talbot, with arrangements in charge of Mrs. W. W. Wheatcraft, Crawford county central committee woman.

At Bucyrus, the governor spoke in Washington Square asserting that appropriations for school purposes were 50 per cent higher during his tenure of office than during the Lausche administration.

Crawford county Republican candidates attended both rallies.

The governor's caravan formed at Mt. Gilead and proceeded to Upper Sandusky, Kenton, Ada, and Lima after the Crawford county appearances.

Lausche, meanwhile, is touring the Ohio River area with talks scheduled tonight at Portsmouth and Ironton.

Court to Move To New Room

Mansfield municipal court will move into its new quarters on the top floor of the city building Monday morning.

The spacious rooms, formerly used as police recreation and civilian defense headquarters, were dedicated several weeks ago.

When the court occupies its new quarters it will adopt a more formal procedure. Persons in the room will be required to stand as Judge H. H. Schettler enters, and the court sessions will be opened formally following the procedure of Common Pleas court. No smoking will be permitted in the room at any time.

Ohio Convict Gets Death Sentence

COLUMBUS — (UP) — John Thomas, 34, of Dayton, returned to the Ohio penitentiary today to await execution in the electric chair for the slaying of two penitentiary guards.

Thomas was found guilty by a jury of 11 women and one man late yesterday afternoon.

Volunteer Enlistments Plan Flops

Universal Military Training Push Seen

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Defense officials said today the volunteer enlistment program for 18-year-olds has been a flop, and they plan to renew their appeal for universal military training.

Only 18,300 teen-agers have volunteered for the one-year hitch to be followed by six years in a civilian reserve organization. The program calls for 161,000.

Defense authorities said the next congress will be asked to enact a program for universal training similar to the one requested by President Truman. That arrangement would provide for six months of continuous training for 18 and 19-year-olds in a military camp, followed by an additional training period in the National Guard or reserves.

The volnteer program for 18-year-olds was tacked onto the draft act as a last-minute compromise. It was first proposed by defense officials that this one-year training for 18-year-olds be made compulsory, but Congress put it on a voluntary basis.

INSUFFICIENT, CLAIM

The Army said it has succeeded in signing up only 10,500 of the 18-year-olds to date. The Air Force picked up 1,249; Marines 1,367 and Navy 5,154.

Army authorities contend that this will fail to provide the pool of trained manpower needed to protect the nation in an emergency.

The draft is not building up the pool of reserve manpower either, the army officers point out. Men who serve 21 months can sign up for another year. When they have completed three years' service they are not subject to call into the reserves.

Defense officials say most 18-year-olds apparently prefer a three-year hitch with no compulsion to serve six years in the reserves. Most of them are signing up for that.

Buck Raise On Phones

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Six cities today filed protests with the State Utilities commission against the proposed increase in telephone rates asked by the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

Protests were filed by city attorneys or solicitors on behalf of Akron, Columbus, Toledo, Dayton, Springfield and Youngstown.

The company filed an application Feb. 2 for authority to increase its rates. The proposed rates, if allowed, would increase the company's annual revenue an estimated $8,500,000 and boost the average user's bill between 25 and 35 cents a month.

The cities charged that the proposed increases are "excessive" and the inventory and valuation submitted by the company in its application were "grossly excessive."

The cities also claimed that the company's statements covering operating expenses were incorrect

Gets 2-Year Term

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UP) — A church organist convicted of attempted abortion today began serving a two-year prison sentence. In addition, Mrs. Mary Josephine Schmeltz, New Albany, Ind., was fined $500 in Louisville criminal court.

Polls Wrong, Lucas Says

Senator Sees Gain For President

By GEORGE COMINOS

A lot of people, particularly the private poll takers, are going to be in for a surprise in November, Senator Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, asserted yesterday in an interview. He addressed a Democratic rally here last night.

Lucas said he had some private polls made and that his findings do not agree with those made by newspapers and poll takers. He said he was able to have his polls taken in places where the laboring man votes.

The private poll taker stands in front of a bank or on a business corner and polls 100 or 200 persons, Lucas said. He said that was not an accurate manner in which to take a straw vote

"We all remember what happened to the Literary Digest poll. If the laboring man votes and the farmer continues to change his attitude as a result of waning prices, a lot of people are going to be in for a surprise.

"Truman is waging the most courageous fight of any man running for office His strong heart is inducing many a man who was against him six months ago to be for him today.

Lucas left last night for Washington where he will visit his son who is in school. He said he would then go to Utica, N. Y., for a speaking engagement

Marshall Off For Greece

ATHENS —(UP)— Secretary of State George Marshall was flying to Athens today to look into the situation in Greece, where communist guerrilla forces were reported greater now than when the United States first extended aid to this country.

Marshall left Paris at 9:30 a. m (3:30 a. m. EST) and was due here late today. He expected to return to Paris Monday.

Strike Threatens Canton's Busses

CANTON —(UP)— Federal conciliators met with union and management representatives again today in an effort to head off a threatened strike on the Canton city bus lines.

The contract between the company and AFL Drivers' association expired at midnight last night, and the union scheduled a meeting for 1:30 a. m. tomorrow to take a strike vote if no agreement is reached in today's negotiations.

TOURNEY NEAR END

CLEVELAND — (UP)— The open pair championship, main event of the all-American Bridge tournament, got underway today with the last of four sessions scheduled for completion tomorrow night.

Robbed! Yells Umpire, and He Means It

LONG BEACH, Calif —(AP)— For once, John E "Beans" Reardon, ex-major league umpire, wished someone had yelled, "Robber!"

Reardon reported to police yesterday that his warehouse was burglarized of an unknown amount of transfer goods.

Also missing were five autographed baseballs.

Autographed, naturally, "John E 'Beans' Reardon."

Dewey-Hull Dispute In Spotlight

Elder Statesman Chides Candidate

(By United Press)

Republican Nominee Thomas E. Dewey and Elder Statesman Cordell Hull were embroiled in a dispute today over who established America's non-partisan foreign policy.

Their controversy took the political spotlight as Dewey and President Truman prepared to wind up their midwestern campaigns.

Dewey said in Louisville, Ky., earlier this week that he "founded" the nonpartisan policy, and he elaborated on that theme last night in St. Paul, Minn.

But from his room in Bethesda, Md., Naval hospital, Hull issued a statement saying that the GOP presidential candidate was "incorrect" in claiming credit for this country's achievements in foreign affairs. The former Democratic secretary of state also chided his own party for similar "extravagant claims."

SEES THREAT

The nonpartisan foreign policy, Hull insisted, was "the fruit of joint and patriotic effort by members of both political parties. And he added that recent "competitive claims" are a serious threat to the continued success of that policy.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman headed for Washington where his train is due late this afternoon. He will rest over the week end and set out Monday for speeches in Miami, Fla., and Raleigh, N. C.

In his speech last night, Dewey gave his own version of how the nonpartisan foreign policy evolved. He said he could have exposed the "blunders" of the Democratic administration in world affairs four years ago.

"I made the decision, and it was all my own, that it was more important that we preserve the unity of our country in the crisis of a war, and accordingly I did not do so," Dewey said.

He said he appointed a representative to work with Hull in laying a nonpartisan foundation for the United Nations.

"Secretary Hull accepted this cooperation handsomely," Dewey said, "and we succeeded in lifting the whole problem of the United Nations out of the partisanship of a political campaign."

Legion Fight Looms Over Civil Rights

MIAMI —(INS)— A hot convention-floor fight on the civil rights issue appeared to be shaping up today for the American Legion's 30th annual convention in Miami next week.

Most of the Legionnaires began arriving by plane, auto and special trains this morning, but fellow veterans who preceded them have already outlined some topics that will highlight the policy debate within the organization.

A Legion delegation from Mississippi, where the South's revolt against the Democratic party was born, has filed a strongly-worded resolution demanding "a return to the states of the rights of the people."

Countering the Mississippi stand were equally-stout resolutions from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Minnesota and District of Columbia delegations. Those groups are calling for federal laws against racial discrimination.

Admit 90 Robberies In Two-Year Spree

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Two men who admitted 90 robberies in the past two years were under indictment for burglary today in Cincinnati.

A Hamilton county grand jury indicted James S. Reeves of Cincinnati, and Claude S Hendricks, 35, of Lexington, Ky.

President Calls For Expansion

Edict Directed To Forrestall

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. — (AP)—President Truman announced today he has directed the defense department to "organize all military reserve units required for the national security."

The presidential orders, requiring action "without delay," called for establishment of "vigorous and progressive reserve training programs."

It was directed to Defense Secretary Forrestal and the head of the armed service departments under him.

The president told Forrestal to assign "an active, capable, high-ranking officer" to head the reserve program in each department of the national defense establishment.

SIGNS ORDER

Mr. Truman signed an executive order aboard his Washington-bound campaign train shortly before midnight, to carry out the program.

It says the national security requires "reserve components of appropriate strength and maximum effectiveness exist throughout the nation."

In a statement, Mr. Truman said the Organized Reserve Corps of the Army and Air Force have not made as rapid progress as other branches of the service in building up their postwar strength.

Forrestal was directed to report within 60 days on progress under the order.

The President said his order was intended to "give the balance necessary to our national defense in its broadest aspect."

Firm Named In Action

The National Labor Relations Board today filed an action to require the Tappan Stove company to cease recognition of the Independent Employes association of that company.

The action was filed in the U. S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, and asks the court to enforce an NLRB order.

The action seeks to have the company follow out other instructions of the order which directed the company to reinstate four employes, to cease dominating or interfering with labor organization affairs, and to refrain from dealing with any union until one had been certified by the NLRB.

Officials of the appeals court told The News-Journal by telephone that the order was issued on March 15, 1948. They said the petition filed today was sent from Washington and was signed by A. Norman Somers, assistant general counsel of the NLRB. No time had been set for hearing.

George Condos, public relations officer for the Tappan company, said the company had not received official notification of the action in Cincinnati and would withhold comment until notification is received.

Father, Daughter Killed In Blaze

BOSTON—(INS)—A father and his daughter were burned to death and two other children badly injured today by a fire of undetermined origin which swept a three-story South Boston house.

The dead were Edward J. Barrett, 35, father of seven children, and his daughter, Kathleen, 3½.

ONE DEAD, THREE HURT

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — John Snow, 19, was killed and three companions were injured when their car plunged through a guard rail and rolled down a 50-foot embankment this morning.

Quiz On Your Community Chest

They ask?

Why spend money for luncheons?

The answer:

The Mansfield Community Chest does not have luncheons. The Kick-off breakfast has been paid for by W. A. Brandenburg and the Brandenburg Chevrolet company for the past three years, and the Special Gifts luncheon is paid for by Paul R. Tappan. In previous years when the Community Chest had report luncheons, every worker paid for his and her own meals.

Dr. Lincoln Long to Talk at Church Rally In City Sunday

Noted Pastor To Address Session

County Council to Sponsor Meeting

A choir of 40 young voices from the St John's Evangelical and Reformed church will provide the music for the first mass meeting and rally of the Richland County Council of Churches and Christian Agencies, scheduled for tomorrow night.

The choir will be directed by J. C. Klinger, music supervisor of the St. John's church.

The meeting tomorrow will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 8 p. m. Rev. Matthew G. Madden, president of the council, will preside at the meeting in the absence of Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the church who goes to Marion tomorrow to speak at two meetings.

Ministers, laymen, women and young people of the church are extended an invitation to join in this first interdenominational rally ever held in the county.

Speaker will be Dr. R. Lincoln Long, noted pastor of the Collingwood Presbyterian church of Toledo, an active minister in affairs of the Presbyterian church and a nationally known speaker and church organizer. Although it will be Dr. Long's first appearance here, he is well-known for his church affiliations.

The program will begin with an organ prelude by Miss Mabel Zehner, organist of the host church. She will play, "Sunset and Evening Bells," by Federlin.

PASTORS MARCH IN

Ministers of the county together with their official representatives are to march into the church singing "The Church's One Foundation" as a processional.

The junior choir, comprised of boys and girls from 12 to 15 years old, will sing "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Davis.

Purpose of the council will be explained by Rev. Madden, who expects to quote the part of the constitution dealing with the subject. Copies of this constitution have been sent to all county pastors for their church's perusal.

The junior choir will sing a second anthem, "Jesus, Shepherd of Sheep," by Jerome, and it will be followed by congregational singing. Then Dr. Long will speak. He has not announced his subject but Rev. Madden expects him to talk along the line of church unity and cooperation.

For her postlude, Miss Zehner will use Bartlett's "Festival Hymn."

While the meeting is being sponsored by the council, the meeting is open to the public Rev. Madden said.

Church Observes Men's Sunday

It will be Men's Sunday" at the Main Street Evangelical UB church tomorrow. In the morning the pastor, Rev. Willard J. Shawk will speak on the theme, "Men and the Church."

Tomorrow night, Rev. M. W. Wappner, chaplain at the reformatory, will be the guest speaker. Men of the church will have charge of the service with D. A. Spayde presiding.

Law in the Bible — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Leviticus 19:1-18; Deuteronomy 5-6; Matthew 22:34-40.

One of the laws God gave to His people through Moses was that when they reaped they should not gather the gleanings; and when they gathered their grapes they should leave some for the poor and strangers.

Moses called the people of Israel together and read them the law given by God for their guidance as He talked to them out of the fire on Mt. Sinai, while Moses stood between them and the Lord, as they were afraid.

The people were to remember that it was God who brought them out of bondage in Egypt, and that they should worship Him only, and not bow down before graven images or likenesses of anything on earth or in the sea.

Jesus was asked by a lawyer, "What is the great commandment of the law?" To love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, Jesus answered, and to love thy neighbor as thyself.

MEMORY VERSE—Matt. 22:39.

Group Shows Gift Bundles

Sample pack-a-towel packages, which church women and young people of Mansfield churches are asked to send overseas, will be displayed at the public library beginning Monday, Oct. 25 and continuing for that week, Mrs. E Jackson Osborne has announced.

Mrs. Osborne, project chairman for the Mansfield Council of Church Women, asks that all packages be taken to the donor's own church or to the meeting of the Council on Nov. 5 at the United Presbyterian church.

These pack-a-towel bundles are this year's overseas projects for church women and are a part of the World Community Day program to be presented that day.

Donors are requested to get a towel 2 2inches wide, pack garments in one end then flip over the other end and fasten with a row of new safety pins. Into this package may go bedroom slippers, (the soft-soled kind), new material for a dress or yarn, a sewing kit, and soap, comb, tooth brush, hair pins, handkerchiefs, socks, stockings, neckties, scarfs, packed into a pocketbook, pouch or washcloth. Writing materials may also be included.

"Include a friendly note in your package," Mrs. Osborne urges. "And send your name and address. Pin firmly to the package a piece of cloth with the letter 'B' or 'G' in crayon and the size."

These bundles will be taken to the church on Nov 5 for dedication and later shipment overseas.

John Robbins Heads Youth Fellowship

John Robbins heads the newly-organized junior high Youth Fellowship of the First Presbyterian church which last Sunday held an organizational retreat at Camp Nimwan.

Other officers are Nancy Robbins, vice president; Neil Roller, secretary; Jack Schmidt, treasurer; David Buchanan, pianist; Courtney Bourns, song leader.

Committee chairmen are Jon Young, faith and life; Pat Edmonstone, stewardship; Robert Sundell, fellowship; and Mary Lou McCullough, outreach.

SPEAKS TO YOUTH—A. C. Feigert of Van Wert, Ohio, manufacturer, will be the speaker for the October meeting of the Youth for Christ Rally at John Simpson auditorium. Feigert will talk on Saturday night, Oct. 30. The meeting will be in charge of George McNair, president of the Rally.

Meet On Study Plan

A plan for continuing religious education among Mansfield's school children will be presented to the Council of Religious Education Monday night by a committee headed by Paul Lee.

The plan will be the third considered by the council since religious education was ruled out of public schools by the Supreme court last spring.

Working with Lee on the proposed solution have been Mrs. V. C. Stamets, Mrs. Lyle Ish, W. C. Mansfield and Mrs. Charles Ray. Recently this committee met in the parish house of the First Lutheran church with members of the Christian Education committee of the Richland County Ministerial association, to discuss the subject.

Rev. Carveth P. Mitchell heads the Christian education committee which includes Rev. Willard J. Shawk, Dr. W. M. Taylor and Rev. R. W. McNary.

The meeting Monday night will be held in the First Lutheran church at 7:30 p. m. and John K. Linsenmayer, president, will have charge of the meeting.

Grace Gospel Church Votes to Purchase Organ

Church and Sunday school officers of the Grace Gospel church were elected at a congregation meeting Thursday night.

The church members voted to purchase a new electric organ. The church already has $2,200 in the organ fund.

Church officials are: Carl Oswalt, secretary; Alfred Hahn, treasurer; Lloyd Kick, financial secretary; Robert Miller, missionary treasurer; William Nash, and Lloyd Steinhelfer, elders for two years; Russell Fisher and Paul Stahl, trustees for three years. Mrs. Maurice Horn, pianist, Mrs. J. E. Davey, missionary prayer band president.

In the Sunday school, Wilbur Kindinger was chosen president. Other officers are: Lloyd Steinhelfer, junior superintendent; Dixie Scoles, young people's superintendent; Harry Shoman, head usher; Harold Heilman, Edwin Schmidt, Russell Fisher, Earl Fleming, Richard Shoman, Floyd Smith, Carl Oswalt, and Paul Stahl, assistant ushers. This group of ushers are for the church service.

In the annual financial report of the congregation it was announced that missionary offering for the past year totaled $19.965 and that total budget monies for the year were $28.145.95. Last year 70.9 per cent of the total money raised in the church was sent to missions both at home and abroad.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mrs. Charles F. Sheriff, Mrs J.H.Mollenkop, Mrs C. N. Overmyer, Mrs. Naomi Nussbaum, and Mrs. P. J. Woodard will go to Zanesville Monday and Tuesday to attend the annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Synod of Ohio.

Mansfield Church Sponsors Series of Mission Meetings

Dr. John C. Ramsay of Laredo, Tex., will conduct a visitation-preaching mission at the First United Presbyterian church from Oct. 26 through Nov. 7.

The visitation will take place from Oct. 26 through Oct. 30 and the preaching from Oct. 31 through Nov. 7. The visiting will be done by members of the church going out in teams of two each, similar to Christ's mission of the 70 when He sent them out two by two.

The Mansfield mission is one of the evangelism crusades which are being conducted in this country and abroad.

Dr. Ramsay was designated as an evangelist-at-large by the Magnum Presbytery in 1946. His mission in Mansfield will be his 20th in nine states since last February. His missions are considered unique because he combines lay visitation evangelism with preaching evangelism.

DR. JOHN C. RAMSAY

Dr. Ramsay has been pastor of a number of Presbyterian churches served as religious work secretary of the Army YMCA during World War 1, was superintendent of home missions and evangelist for Norfolk Presbytery for nine years, and organized Westminster church in Lawton, Okla., during World War II.

MISS RUTH BREYMAN

Tasks Keep Her Busy

Although she has the official title, "parish worker," Miss Ruth Breyman finds much more to do than visiting and helping the pastor of the Main Street Evangelical UB church, in her present job.

Miss Breyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Breyman, 175 West Dickson avenue, is secretary and assistant in the weekly classes of religious education as well as a parish worker.

A graduate of Northcentral college at Naperville, Ill., she spent the summer as a voluntary worker at the Flatrock Children's Home at Flatrock, the church's official orphanage. During her college days, she taught Sunday school in the famous Mooseheart Orphanage at Mooseheart, Ill.

Miss Breyman has been helping Mrs. Charles Ray launch the Thursday afternoon classes for children at the church.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 21

Day Draws Nearer For Leaving U. S.

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
(Edited By Isaac Don Levine)

I was frantically looking for a friendly soul who would help me remain in America as the month of July was passing. Every day brought me nearer to the dreaded sailing date of the Pobeda, the Soviet vessel which was to take a whole party of us back to our dark life. But I did not know where to turn for my salvation

A couple of days after the incident with the stranger who had commented on our Russian diction, I returned to the spot on Riverside Drive where it occurred The man was sitting on the same bench

He asked me if I was not the woman he had heard talk Russian with a friend an evening or two earlier. When I replied in the affirmative, he told me that he had come to America from the Ukraine during the first world war

My heart leaped. Here, I thought, was someone who spoke my language and who might understand me. But I had to be careful, as I knew that the NKVD vigilance had been increased of late To test him, I led the conversation to such subjects as Russia's part in the war As a protection, in the event this man turned out to be a secret Soviet agent, I sang the praises of our heroic fighters.

The stranger seemed sympathetic enough when we ranged over many subjects, but I was torn between an urge to tell all and fear that I might land in a trap. When he invited me to join him for a cold drink at a soda fountain, I impulsively replied: "No, no. They are watching me."

The stranger laughingly reminded me that I was in America, and asked me up to his little apartment nearby for a drink of water I felt that the ice could not be broken that evening and decided to leave He invited me to come back for a Russian meal a few days later and put his name on a card It was Dr Alexander Kojansky.

I could not make up my mind what to do During the preceding weeks when I would go out in the evening for a breath of air I would sometimes sit on a bench at 89th street and Central Park Among the habitual strollers in the neighborhood was a man in the late forties who, after observing me on several occasions, spoke to me once·

"I know you're Russian I've seen you here often"

★

With difficulty I explained to him in broken English that I was a teacher and was due to return to Russia soon. Although he had every earmark of being a native American, I was suspicious Our exchanges were brief During our second encounter he said to me·

"Russia—no good Don't go back. Everything O. K here"

I was clinging even to this straw when the evening of Dr. Kojansky's dinner arrived. After all, I figured, he had emigrated from Russia and had brought over a sister, as he had informed me, from the Soviet Union. He must have known of the life there. I decided to confide my plight to him.

As soon as I entered Dr Kojansky's apartment, I burst out with my story I asked for his advice, telling him that I loved America, that I had no one in Russia to go back to, and that my boat was scheduled to sail within a matter of days My host was obviously astonished and unresponsive My fright did not touch him and it was evident that he did not comprehend my distress Shaken and crushed, I stalked out of his place

By this time nearly all my money which I had saved during my two years of teaching in America had been converted by me into clothes and other articles to take with me to Russia It was dangerous to possess dollars in the Soviet Union and also useless, whereas goods from abroad could always be exchanged for food In the course of my shopping tour, I lost $70 in cash, but that worried me little. I was anxious to pile up in my room enough goods to convince the Poroyniakovs and the other Soviet hounds that I was getting ready to sail for home

The Soviet consulate held a farewell party for the departing group My colleagues, the Samarins were not present This astonished me I felt that unwittingly the Samarins had sounded an alarm by their demonstrative absence It was to be a gay evening, but my mood was one of bitterness I recall a conversation carried on by a few of the women on the cold war Usually abstaining from any political discussion, I chimed in this time with some observation

'And what do you know about the cold war?" one of the NKVD wives asked contemptuously

"And why shouldn't I? For two years I have endured a cold war at your hands"

The atmosphere became repulsive to me There was drinking and singing All the signs pointed to an orgy I had a bite and slipped out, going up to my favorite haunt at Central Park.

My American acquaintance was there, and greeted me Once more he repeated the injunction about Russia being "no good" and that I should stay in America I could not converse with him freely, and when he escorted me a short distance on the way home, I asked him "Who are you?" He gave me the name of "Leo Costello" which I jotted down on the cover of a packet of matches

I never saw this man nor Dr. Kojansky again. Finding myself impaled upon the horns of dilemma, the fear was always with me that I might fall into the wrong hands.

At the Poroyniakov apartment the following day a remark was dropped to me casually about the Samarins It was accompanied by a searching look They lived a number of blocks further up the West Side of Manhattan.

★

Several times, in the closing days of July before the Pobeda was due to sail on Saturday, the 31st, I observed the Soviet consul's car in the neighborhood while I was out marketing I was sure that they were checking on the movements of the Samarins

Then one day I was startled out of my wits when I ran straight into Consul General Yakov Lomakin stepping out of a cigar store.

"Yakov Mikhailovich, what are you doing here?"

"I like your street," he answered curtly and made off

Time was running out If I was to remain in America, I would have to act resolutely and quickly.

(TOMORROW: Mrs. Kasenkina resolves to act.)

Polk Death Report Due

ATHENS — (UP) — The Greek ministry of information announced today that War Minister Constantine Rentis and newspapermen will be taken to Salonika Sunday by air for an important "announcement" which was expected to say that the slaying of George Polk, American radio correspondent, has been solved

Greek newspapers today were filled with reports that the killing last May of the 34-year-old correspondent of Columbia Broadcasting system has been pinned firmly on Greek communists.

Some of the newspapers named the alleged suspects, including a former communist member of the Greek parliament who reportedly has been arrested

Official sources refused to confirm these newspaper reports but in off-the-record conversations placed blame for the slaying on Greek communists

(In Washington, U S government monitors overheard in Athens radio broadcast which said an official announcement in the Polk case would be made tomorrow, and that "photographs of the culprits" would be made available It was assumed that the announcement now has been postponed until Sunday to allow time for correspondents and Rentis to go to Salonika in advance)

Library Gets 'Crusaders'

Shining Mountains Also On New List

"The Crusaders," by Stefan Heym, is one of 21 new books which will be available at the Mansfield Public library Monday This selection is a war novel that centers around the personnel and activities of a propaganda and intelligence detachment in Europe The keynote is sounded when the detachment is required to define the ideals and objectives for which the Allies are fighting

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1948

Drive carefully tomorrow—and the old car really deserves a fall checkup.

In case you have overlooked making a note of it, National Cranberry week will extend from Oct. 18 to 23—and information is to the effect that this particular berry now represents a $16,000,000 a year industry for growers and canners in five states.

Grand Jury Acts In Routine Way

ONCE MORE the Richland county grand jury, after considering cases and returning indictments, visited the county jail and found that there should be a new jail "at the earliest possible time, considering building conditions and available public funds"—which seems to dispose of that matter until the next grand jury gets around to saying the same thing.

It is interesting to note, however, that Sheriff Robinson is commended for keeping the jail "clean and in good order," which must be quite a job, considering the ancient structure in which he and his associates are required to work.

Not that it was expected here (although it is being done in other counties) the grand jury ignored the gambling situation in Mansfield. This is a subject that is being widely discussed, following a return of customary gambling rackets after a two months ban last February and March, by order of Police Chief Schwab acting after sanction by Major Vaughn.

Apparent intent of Mansfield law enforcement officials is to disregard state laws and city ordinances against commercialized gambling, in which case it is quite proper for a county grand jury to inquire into the situation and act—as has been done here in the past.

'Best' In Bus Service Promised

MASS TRANSPORTATION, as first provided by street cars and later by buses, is an important part of a city's obligation to a large percentage of its residents. The coverage and dependability of this service is a matter of interest and concern to the thousands of persons who ride the buses either regularly or occasionally.

In the earlier days of street cars, routes were limited to the extent to which tracks were laid, and the service was therefore quite restricted. This obstacle has been overcome by substitution of buses which can traverse any improved street and whose routes are limited only by requirement for sufficient patronage to justify operation.

That, it may be assumed, is the intent of Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., which holds the franchise for providing bus service in this city, and announcement of expected arrival of more new buses to add to present equipment, leads to hope that, as E. L. Hukill, an official of the company says, Mansfield will then have "the best transportation system of any city of this size in the country."

Considering fare increases that have been put into effect in a number of other cities, and financial difficulties encountered by operators of mass transportation systems over the country, the raise in fare of token users from 6¼ to 8 1/3 cents per ride, is probably justified by requirement for a reasonable profit on investment and meeting increased operating costs. This is a feature, however, in all elements of public service, which should be subjected to close scrutiny before rate increases are approved by public officials.

Hoover Advises Against 'Meddling'

THE UNITED STATES can best promote good will among its neighbor nations by minding its own business, suggested former President Herbert Hoover in a recent address. He said this country should not meddle in the internal political affairs of other countries in the Western Hemisphere, about which he was speaking.

His wisdom applies with equal force to Europe and other parts of the world. In Europe at present we face a strong temptation to indulge in political meddling on the strength of our operations under the Marshall Plan. Such meddling could tear down our prestige more rapidly than our aid program can build it up.

The policy of isolation from European affairs which America attempted to follow between the wars was wrong, as can now be seen, but somewhere between isolation and meddling there must be a middle policy which would be right. Our experience in policy toward other nations in this hemisphere might be of help in finding the pattern for wise policy for Europe.

Teachers Who Lean To the 'Left'

PARENTS are often alarmed when their offspring come home from college indoctrinated with leftist theories. In such cases young students have sometimes taken as gospel, opinions handed down by instructors who believe that the free enterprise system is doomed to failure and are not averse to giving it a shove on the downward path.

President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern University in a recent speech remarked that a few such teachers are present on most campuses. He said:

"If American business prospers we educators have income. If it does not prosper, we go without. American education owes a great debt to American business."

Dr. Snyder has pointed out one fault in the thinking of those who would indoctrinate youth with disrespect for and lack of appreciation of the system which has made possible the erection and maintenance of the great colleges and universities which cover the country.

Students should learn of social reform in all its various phases, and be exposed to many doctrines. At the same time, it should be pointed out to them that the economic source of their education is the competitive system.

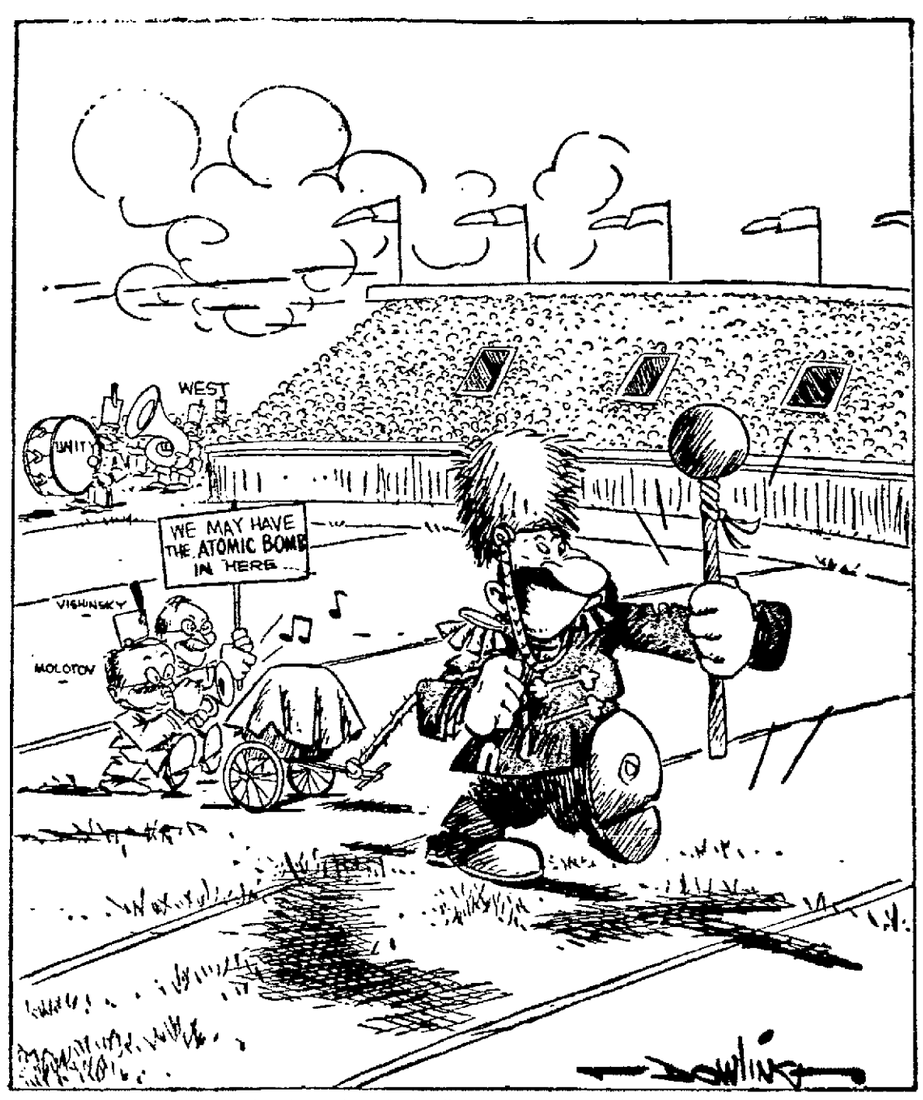

Probing Thoughts of the 'Fat Man'

WHEN people tell you that "everybody loves a fat man," don't be too sure he is happy about it. The fat man is jolly only on the surface, says Dr. Herbert T. Kelly, a Philadelphia authority on diet. He says that deep inside himself the fat man feels uneasy emotionally. He eats as a sort of defense mechanism, and grows fatter.

The thin man who stays thin probably will go on thinking the fat man has more fun. Doctors say, however, the thin man is likely to live longer.

As the American Legion prepares to converge on Miami, Fla., the word is being passed around that any resemblance to a hurricane will be purely coincidental.

As Claude Callan explains it: "On a holiday most members of the family get to rest, but mother has to work a little harder to help them celebrate the day."

Putting On Their Show Between Halves.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Are Present Prices of Bread Justified?

IT MIGHT be suggested to candidates Dewey and Warren that they might as governers of their respective states, induce the producers of bread to lower prices. Such a move would garner more votes than all their speeches. And an examination of the figures shows that there may be a strong case for a reduction.

The issue is not new. In August, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan suggested that the bakers might reduce the bread price. The bakers presented figures intended to show that the reduction was not possible. Later, President Truman brought up the subject to show that the 80th Congress could have given him power to reduce the price of bread. He took occasion to castigate "the big corporation bakers" and to imply that the Republican party wanted to protect the bakers.

The issue comes down to a questionn whether, despite a big decline in wheat prices, other items involved in producing bread have risen so much that the average price must stay at 14½ cents.

Elaborate figures compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the department of agriculture show that the costs of all ingredients including flour went down from January to June in this year by 1.07 cents per pound of while bread, while the bakers' and retailers' margin went up by 1.1 cents.

The millers' margin, according to these figures, went down .88 to .66 cents. Since June, the price of flour and shortenings has gone down. In all probability, the same calculation would show that by now the cost of all ingredients has gone down altogether by about 1.2 cents per pound, which would mean a rise in bakers' and retailers' margins of about 1.3 cents.

* * *

Claim Lower Production

THE BAKERS reply that their costs have gone up since January, particularly in wages. The department of commerce's survey of current business shows that wages in the baking industry have gone up 6.85 per cent.

Let us assume that wages in distribution have gone up by the same percentage. Figuring a total wage ratio of 30 per cent in the retail price of bread, this increase in wages would increase the cost per pound by .3 cents.

This seems to show that the increase in wages per pound, taken from the decrease in costs of materials per pound, leaves about a one-cent margin.

The question is whether that very important cent should be given to consumers in a reduction in price. This should be considered particularly by those producers whose costs are lower than the over-all average.

In fairness, it should be added that the bakers also claim that labor productivity has been going down. To substantiate this, they say that when 1945 is compared with 1947 there is a considerable reduction in the output per man hour. This rate of reduction, however, would mean very little in the period from January to October 1948.

It would be a very effective move politically for Dewey and Warren as state governors to find a means of meeting with the bakers and others to see whether a reduction might be possible. It might also be good public relations on the part of the bakers to meet this move half way. The issue between Dewey and Truman is whether government must coerce business or whether government can cooperate with business. Here is a chance to demonstrate cooperation.

Washington Calling

Supreme Court Ideals

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IT WAS Mr. Dooley, the gorgeously irreverent character created by Finley Peter Dunne, who remarked that the Supreme Court followed the election returns like ordinary mortals, presumably the court can also follow the public opinion polls, which this year show so clearly how the wind is blowing.

That would in itself be enough to explain the dismay among certain members of the court over President Truman's proposal to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow to talk with Stalin.

No matter how sincere the President may have been in his belief that such a move would help the chances for peace, it would plainly have had major political overtones.

Little imagination is required to visualize the chief justice returning from his mission, stepping from his plane and telling a waiting world that Stalin will co-operate for peace.

While the resemblance to Neville Chamberlain's return from his visit to Hitler with "peace in our time" would occur to the thoughtful, the drama could have been counted on to capture the waning hope of a despairing world.

The court would once again become the focus of a political struggle. This is deeply disturbing to some of the brethren on the supreme bench who believe that each excursion into extracurricular activity weakens the judicial function and casts a shadow of doubt on the disinteredness of the court.

In an address curiously overlooked, that point of view was vigorously expressed last June by Justice Felix Frankfurter. Speaking on the eve of the political conventions, Justice Frankfurter at a banquet of the American Law Institute cited high authority to buttress his own view of "how circumspect a justice of the supreme court should be."

* * *

Partisan Bias Excluded.

HE QUOTED from a letter written by Morrison R. Waite, chief justice from 1874 to 1888. Waite was being actively promoted for the presidency of the United States by friends and admirers including his own nephew. To his nephew he wrote:

"In my judgment, my predecessor detracted from his name by permitting himself to think he wanted the presidency. Whether true or not, it was said that he permitted his ambitions in that direction to influence his judicial opinions. I am not one of those who believe he did so consciously, but one who occupies this position should keep himself above suspicion. There can't be a doubt that in these days of political-judicial questions it is dangerous to have a judge who thinks beyond the judicial in his personal ambitions.

"Can I, with propriety, permit my name to be used for the formation of political combinations? If I do, can I remain at all times and in all cases an unbiased judge in the estimation of the people? If I am not, shall I not degrade my office? Put these things in your pipe and smoke them and tell me if you think I ought to permit my name to be used."

Frankfurter went on to say that "believing profoundly that the general attitude thus expressed by Chief Justice Waite binds us," he was thereby "foreclosed" from discussing subjects of immediate political interest.

... of his listeners had no difficulty relating his remarks to events soon to capture the headlines.

In January the ... will be a Republican in the White House (Short of some entirely unforeseen and highly improbable event) and there will be a Republican Congress.

While Supreme Court justices presumably purge themselves of their political affiliations, the fact remains that the nine justices were all appointed by Democratic presidents and with one exception they were themselves Democrats. The position of the court is certain to be contentious enough without any extracurricular activity.

Welfare Survey Approved.

Editor News-Journal:

We commend the News Journal for the reports on the state survey of the Children's Home situation.

We actively and morally support, and urge others to do so, the following recommendations of the survey:

1. Retain and improve the present building.

2. Hire trained personnel. Advantage can be taken of state scholarships in order to meet the difficulties of securing trained workers.

3. Co-ordinate agencies. Of the several types of co-ordination we prefer the formation of a county department of welfare by the county commissioners as permitted by law.

Since our special interest is minority groups we are concerned that Negro children are not being cared for "to the extent that would seem indicated." Opportunities for placement of Negro children in qualified Negro homes are limited. Yet, there are no Negroes in the home, only three under the board's care.

It is important that every child be given the protection of the home, pending placement, regardless of creed or color.

Carrying out of the above recommendations will eliminate neglect of any group and the need of private care.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Politics Enlivened as Election Nears

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE political trains were rolling again this week. The speeches were warming up what some observers had described as one of the dullest presidential campaigns in memory.

President Truman, insisting the Republicans have failed to speak "plainly and honestly" on the issues, set off on a tour through Ohio, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Promising to "tear the hide off them from top to bottom," he said Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey was dispensing "soothing syrup" and "sweet nothings" instead of the issues of "peace, prices and places to live."

Mr. Truman also maintained the theme that the GOP is ruled by "big business bosses." He told an audience at Akron that the Republicans have "tasted blood and they are waiting eagerly for the time when they can go ahead . . . and do a real hatchet job on the New Deal without interference."

Dewey Becomes Blunter.

The Dewey train was scheduled to cover more ground than the President's and the New York governor used the bluntest terms he has used to date in criticizing the Truman administration.

At the first stop, Pittsburgh, he said "no administration ever made so many fundamental blunders even from base political motives." Upholding the Taft-Hartley law, which the President wants repealed, Dewey said it had cut strikes by 50 per cent. He conceded that "it is not perfect" but that "whenever it needs change it will be changed."

At Louisville, Dewey assailed what he called the clumsiness, weakness and wobbling of the administration. He used such words as "miserable," "confused" and "helpless" in describing the President's handling of domestic and foreign affairs.

Wallace on Foreign Policy.

Also campaigning in the midwest, Progressive Party candidate Henry A. Wallace continued to attack the administration's foreign policy. He called Mr. Truman "a man with no knowledge of international affairs" who defers to "corporation presidents, bankers, generals, admirals and Churchill."

"I believe," he said, "that we can no more afford to let blind, unreasoning hatred of Russia shape our foreign policy than we can afford to let that policy be shaped by the ideological affinity of a few scattered American communists to Russia."

In the south, States Rights candidate J. Strom Thurmond hit Truman, Dewey and Wallace for supporting the Federal Employment Practices Act.

At Home

Some Price Drops.

Across the country, meat prices have plunged thirty cents a pound on some cuts. Good crops have lowered prices of other foods. In many cities department stores have marked down men's suits and topcoats. Home appliance dealers are offering more liberal rebates and trade-in allowances. A careful shopper now can find a good $2 shirt.

Optimists hope these signs may foretell a permanent crack in the cost of living. Hard-headed economists—who have been wrong in the past, predicting recession when all that came was more inflation—are not so hopeful. They say the price relief is mainly seasonal.

* * *

Fuller Preparedness.

The National Security Resources Board announced that a new over-all mobilization bill, for use in a war emergency, will be in final draft form by December 1. The bill provides controls over industries, manpower, prices, civilian goods. An official explained: "It wraps everything up in one package."

Defense Secretary Forrestal invited representatives from industry, labor, press, schools, churches and the professions to discuss "problems relating to the overall national defense." The discussions will begin November 8. They will be secret.

* * *

ECA Progress Report.

Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, reported good results from six months of ECA effort.

The 16 countries in the Marshall Plan, he said, have increased output of coal, steel, electricity, manufactured goods and fertilizer.

Their crops are better. This year Europe will produce a million tons of fertilizer compared with 750,000 tons before the war. They are gradually lessening barriers to goods, services and peoples from outside. Soon a program for currency clearance will be working.

* * *

"Minority President"

Regardless of who is elected President on November 2, he is almost sure to be chosen by a minority of America's voting-age population.

On Election Day, the Census Bureau estimates, there will be about 95,000,000 men and women in the United States but the presidential vote will be only 53,580,000 if ballots are cast at the 1944 rate, or 56,525,000 at the 1940 rate. In 1940 only 59.5 per cent of voting-age Americans cast ballots.

The non-voting population includes 2,000,000 aliens, inmates of penitentiaries, mental hospitals and similar institutions; legal residents of Washington, D. C., who have no vote; and millions who simply failed to register.

Abroad

Veto Expected.

The six "neutral" nations on the Security Council—Argentina, China, Belgium, Colombia, Canada and Syria—spent a week trying to find a solution of the Berlin squabble. When it appeared that they had failed the big three western powers drafted a resolution calling for firm steps to lift the blockade.

Informants said the west was certain Vishinsky would veto any resolution suggesting Russia was wrong or, in fact, that any blockade of Berlin existed; the Soviet view is simply that "traffic restrictions" keep the western powers from supplying Berlin by rail.

In the face of the impasse western representatives retained their facade of hope.

* * *

In Troubled France.

The communists were showing France their muscles. First the Red-led coal miners went on strike. A week later the railway workers struck. A 48-hour stoppage was ordered in the steel mills of the Metz area. For 24 hours the dock workers quit.

The result was a creeping paralysis and the certainty of making drastic electric power cuts throughout the winter. In nine days, the coal strike cost the nation more than 1,000,000 tons.

Both the Catholic Union and the Social Workers Force opposed the rail strike and kept it from becoming general.

Farmer's Diary

The Power of Song

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE autumn evening was cool. Clouds of white mist hung low upon the ridge, making an eerie atmosphere. It was time to bring the cows.

Easily I bounded over the high top rail of the 6-rail post-fence and took the path that lay between my grandfather's orchard and the forest. The cloud of fog closed in around me and as I listened for the familiar tone of our cow bell, I felt small, and alone.

When I came to a clearing where an old lady lived, it was a relief to hear her voice in song. The hymn was familiar, the words clear and distinct—"Abide with me, fast falls the eventide . . ."

She was on the porch and saw me timidly approach and called my name. "Are you afraid?" she asked kindly and I felt the closeness of her affection for a little frightened boy.

I nodded mutely. Looking back, I saw the sun like a great fire ball in the west—the cow's bell clanked far ahead up the mountain trail.

"There's your bell," she said. "Up beyond those rocks—I know every bell in these hills. Go and find them now, drive them out and then follow them home. They won't lose their way!"

I thanked her, with choking breath. She had made me feel better. She had made me grateful, for always . . . her round wrinkled face was like a dried apple, especially about the eyes. Her wide mouth could blow better smoke rings than anybody's I ever saw before or since. She used to entertain us children with that clay pipe while our parents were at love feast.

Now she sang again—"Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day. Earth's joys grow dim, its glories pass away . . . I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless, Ills have no weight and tears no bitterness . . ."

It was getting dark as I followed down the steep ridge, opened the bars and let the cattle into the barnyard. My mother commended me and I told her of my adventure.

After supper, before we went to bed, my mother got out the old green hymn book with "buckwheat" notes, and she and my father sang all the verses of "Abide With Me."

This singing was a great part of my riches as a boy. My father had a good ear for music and taught singing school. He and mother seemed happy to sing together . . . "Where is death's sting? Where grave thy victory? I triumph still, if thou abide with me"

I see where Nelson A. Rockefeller has been named head man of Brotherhood week for 1949, some time next February, and I wish he would do omething to emphasize that a week is not enough. Brotherhood is not the same as an apple or a doughnut.

* * *

The world needs a Brotherhood year with constant dramatization of the idea. The whole trouble with the world is that men accept brotherhood as something they don't have to work at too hard and can treat as a part-time job.

Timely Editorial

Those Tragic Comics.

Evidently the publishers of comic books have got the wind up at last, as the result of the big outcry which has been raised against them by police authorities, psychologists, schoolmarms, social welfare clubs and here and there a few apprehensive parents.

"A code of ethics" devised by these publishers proscribes representations of torture, crime and the hitherto staple female characters who are given to wandering in improbable places without clothing or with very little. Publications which comply with the code will be certified hereafter with a star of approval.

Meanwhile, it is said, a group of educators and others, supposed to know something about the matter, will be asked to advise the publishers about which sort of drawings and narratives may be purveyed to the young without moral or psychological danger.

Whether these somewhat belated efforts at internal reform will succeed in appeasing the adversaries of the comic books is a matter of some doubt.—Washington Post.

As Cerf Tells It

In a publishing office recently, the sales manager, Miller, was ragging the advertising director, a Beau Brummelish individual named Sussman. "I defy you," said Miller, "to show me one order that advertising ever put on our books." "I will," promised Sussman, "just as soon as you can show me a single load of hay that the sun ever put in a barn."

'Bubble Gunning' Due To Appeal Soon as Indoor Sport, He Says

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—A lanky Connecticut Yankee who is a pioneer of railroading in a small way now wants to set all America bubble gunning.

The people who engage in railroading in a small way are those who run miniature choo-choos around their living rooms and basements. Supplying them with choo-choos is now a $60,000,000 industry.

As for bubble gunning, a coming indoor sport, let William Russell Smith, the Connecticut Yankee, explain.

He came up to my desk and asked:

"How would you like to have a double-barreled toy gun that fires soap bubbles and cardboard bullets?"

"I don't know what else life can offer me," I said. "But just what would I do with it?"

"Well, when things get dull," explained Smith. "You pull one trigger and out float two or maybe three bubbles. Then you pull the other trigger. It automatically fires harmless little cardboard pellets."

"And—?"

"The idea," said Smith, "is to hit the soap bubbles with the pellets and break them—the bubbles, I mean. The gun holds 800 to 1,000 soap bubbles and 300 to 400 pellets, and of course you can purchase refills."

★

This sounded like a wonderful way to spend a rainy day at the office, and I promptly accepted. I expect to have a fine time—if my boss doesn't confiscate the bubble gun.

It turned out that the anti-bubble gun was only a side gadget with Smith, who is the Thomas A. Edison of model railroading.

This dry-voiced, 53-year-old ex-machinist holds or has applied for 100 patents in the field.

"And please don't call them toy trains," said Smith. "It makes the kids mad—and their fathers, too. The dads get as much fun out of them as the kids. And model trains aren't exactly toys anyway. They're built to the same scale as real locomotives."

★

The big problem in the industry is to obtain realism.

"The kids want the little trains to look and act as much as possible like real trains," said Smith. He is known in the annals of model railroading as the first man to make a baby engine smoke.

"Every man with a model railroad had tried to produce smoke," he said. "It took me ten years to do it. I had to find a way to get smoke that was harmless and had no disagreeable odor. It also had to come from an ingredient that wouldn't stain or injure furniture or fabrics or rust metal."

He found the answer in a secret chemical formula. The fluid, placed in a container within the engine's smokestack and heated by a tiny electric wire, poured out smoke in volumes.

Broadway Has More Orange Juice Stands Than Bars, Cocktail Spots

Moscow just sent New York a film attacking bigots. But that's sheer hypocrisy. Americans haven't forgotten that when the Kremlin got chummy with Hitler, Russia yanked an anti-bigot movie titled "Professor Mamlock" from the screens . . . The hallelujah notices won by Ray Bolger for his artistry in "Where's Charley?" haven't been matched since G B. Shaw's last tribute to himself . . . Broadway may have a sinful rep, but the Big Street has many more orange juice stands than bars . . . Four More Landowners File Appeals

Object to Amounts Offered for Land

Four more appeals were filed today in common pleas court from the amounts set up by the county commissioners for land required for the new section of State Route 13 around Mansfield airport. Two other appeals were filed Thursday.

The appellants in all cases contend the amounts set up for compensation for the land and damages to the balance are totally "insufficient and inadequate."

Roy H Ferguson, one of the landowners, contends in his petition, that the proposed highway is not for the public convenience and welfare as the commissioners claim.

Ferguson said the proceedings by the commissioners are irregular and "contrary to law." His petition says the amounts tendered were not determined by the commissioners, but by some person whose identity is not disclosed.

Ferguson claims that the proceedings neither name the amount of money set up with the court to pay for the land nor name the deadline time for appeal.

He asks that if the court finds the proceedings proper, his compensation and damages be determined by law. He was allowed $500 compensation for land and $1,300 for damages to the residue.

CALLED INSUFFICIENT

The petition of C. Fred and George M. Brubach says they are offered $1,800 for land taken and $2,680 for damages, and charge the offers are "unfair and confiscatory."

They say they will have to rebuild their slaughter house on a different site and make other changes. The Brubachs state that they would take $1,800 for land taken, $1,000 to build a new fence, $5,500 to build a new slaughterhouse, and $500 for utility installations, if paid at once.

The appeal, filed by Attorney William F Voegele, asks that if that's not done, the court determine the amount that should be paid to the Brubachs.

Jesse L. and Gladys Baith said the $250 offered for their land is inadequate and ask the court to determine the amount. Their attorneys are Weldon, Huston and Keyser.

Raymond F. and Martha Estep said they were offered $700 for land and $600 as damages, which they contend is insufficient. Their attorney is Harold Lutz.

Corrects Error In Estate Total

Papers filed in probate court in connection with the will of Miss Flosse A. Courtney, who died Oct. 6, today were corrected to show that the probable value of her estate totals $5,000 in real estate and $55,000 in personal property.

The papers yesterday had listed the probable value of her estate at $60,000 in real and $55,000 in personal property. Arthur E. Courtney, one of the executors of estate, had the correction entered today on the papers.

Street Job Resumed

Paving Started On Overlook Road

Workmen of the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company began pouring concrete on Overlook road yesterday.

Richard Stander, general manager of the plant, said work would be resumed again on Monday if the weather permits.

He explained that he has received one carload of cement and although he has been promised four other carloads, he could not say when they would arrive.

Overlook road, between Crescent and Davis roads, along with Clifton and Fairlawn avenues, were graded preparatory to paving several weeks ago, but work was held up because a strike at the Medusa Portland Cement company cut off the cement supply.

The three streets turned into quagmires during heavy rains and residents have been denied entrance to their garages.

The strike was recently settled, but a huge backlog of orders has kept the Medusa plant from supplying cement as soon as requests are made.

Form Real Estate Firm

A new Mansfield firm has been incorporated by Curt J. Burkhart, George H. Keyser, and Henry P. Huston.

The firm, Burkay Construction company, Inc., will drill and develop gas and oil wells in the Mansfield area and develop real estate in Mansfield for homes and industries.

Burkhart, president of the company, said the firm would handle all improvements, such as streets, sewers, water, and gas in developing land sites for building purposes.

The office of the company is located at 678 Coleman road. Other officers are Donald Bair, vice president; and Roy Griffin, secretary-treasurer.

Bourns Attends College Session

Lowell Bourns Mansfield, a trustee of the College of Wooster, yesterday attended the board meeting at the college preceding homecoming activities this week end.

Charles F. Kettering, new member of the board, yesterday addressed a capacity chapel audience of students, board members, and faculty.

Highpoints of today's homecoming ceremonies were a parade honoring the homecoming queen, Miss Elinor Hagerman of Beaver Falls, Pa.; a football game between Wooster and Denison and the awarding of prizes for dormitory and float decorations.

An all-college sing at 7 p m tomorrow night will conclude the week-end activities.

Wins Recognition For News Writing

Marguerite Miller McMullen, News-Journal reporter and feature writer won two honorable mentions for newspaper writing today at the 46th annual convention of the Ohio Newspaper Women's association in Cleveland.

She won recognition in the interview and triple entry classifications. The triple entry includes straight news story, interview, and human interest feature.

Olive Gresmer, News-Journal society editor; Nita Branson, church editor, Mrs. McMullen, and Mrs. Virginia Lee, N-J Lucas correspondent, are attending the convention which closes Sunday.

Charges Secrecy Impedes Science

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Secrecy imposed on scientific inquiry is a brake on progress, Dr. Karl T. Compton, new chairman of the military research and development board, said last night.

Dr. Compton one of the nation's leading physicists, spoke at Ohio State university's 75th anniversary dinner, closing event in the two-day silver jubilee ceremonies.

He told his listeners that unless the trend of public suspicion and lowered morale among government employed scientists is reversed, "we shall be in really serious danger."

"It would be better to take the carefully calculated risk of allowing some confidential information to get out of our hands," he said, "if such a policy would enable us to advance our own science and art."

He said the need for secrecy in military planning is obvious, but added: "If we should simply sit tight and hold on to our secrets, it would not be long before our competitor had forged ahead of us.

"Science flourishes and progresses in an atmosphere of free inquiry and free interchange of ideas," he continued. "Any element of secrecy which is imposed on this activity acts like a brake to progress.

Much misunderstanding and confusion in public thinking has come from the difficulty in determining a middle path between secrecy and free exchange of ideas, he said.

"It is probably for this reason, among others," he said, "there is such a furor at the present time about possible leaks of secrets.

"All who are closely concerned with our scientific progress in military affairs are aware of the fact that the results of this publicity and of some procedures of official investigating groups have had serious detrimental effects on our progress toward security research and development."

Court Fines 2 Motorists

Two motorists, convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol were fined today in municipal court. Two others were fined for traffic violations.

Leonard E. McAuley, 34, of Butler, was fined $100 and costs and his driver's license suspended for six months for drunken driving.

The conviction grew out of an accident at 2:15 a. m. today in front of 282 Park avenue east. McAuley's car struck a truck operated by Branson H. Neer of Lima, police said. McAuley suffered a contusion of the chin and was taken to General hospital for treatment.

Edward Baker, 31, of 67 Scott street, was fined $75 and costs for drunken driving, and his driver's license was suspended for six months.

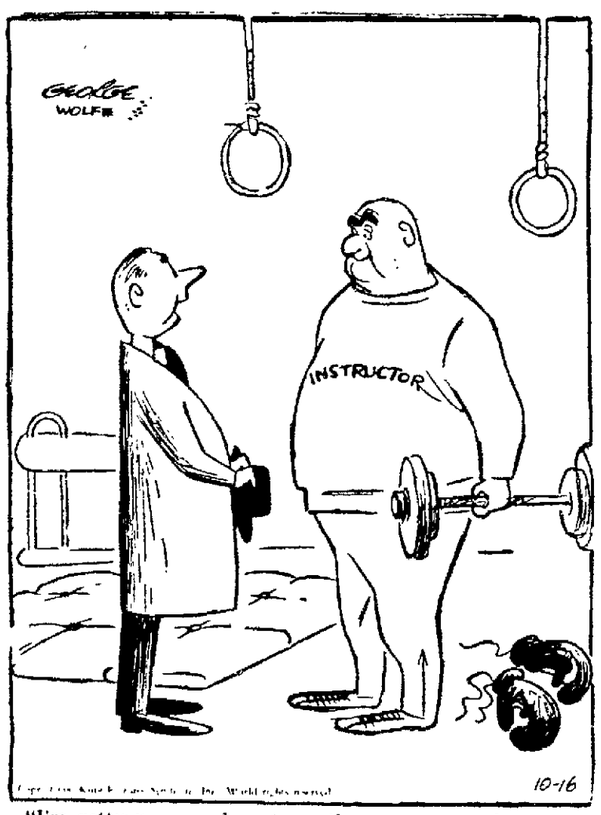

Baker was arrested last night after a freight train had struck his car on the High street crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks. The car stalled on the tracks and the engine carried it 300 feet. Baker was unhurt.

Richard Shadel, Shelby, was fined $15 and costs for unsafe operation. Robert D. Metcalf, Willard, forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in court to answer a change of speeding. Kenneth Hageman, Shelby, was fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Dewey Quoted 1-15 Favorite

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— St. Louis odds-maker James J. Carroll said today some people are wagering on President Truman to win election at odds of 8 to 1.

In Carroll's books, Gov. Thomas E Dewey is a heavy, 1 to 15 favorite to win the presidency in next month's election.

Carroll said he has received "very few bets" on Gov. Dewey. A bettor must put up $15 in order to win one dollar should the New York governor be elected president.

Sanitarians Hear Speakers

Approximately 110 members of the Ohio Association of Public Health Sanitarians heard talks on problems pertaining to public health yesterday at the group's annual fall meeting at the Richland Recreation Center.

Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner, gave the opening address. F. H. Waring, chief engineer of the Ohio Department of Health, spoke on public health problems.

Carl J. Allen, school lighting superintendent for the General Electric company, talked of the proper lighting of schools. E. B. Buchanan, chief of the Division of Food and Meats in Cleveland, spoke to the group about sanitation.

Governor Saves Two From Chair

REIDSVILLE, GA. — (UP) — Wayne Woodruff, convicted slayer of his best friend, and two other men were saved from death by Gov. M. E. Thompson Friday just a few hours before they were scheduled to die in the electric chair.

Thompson ordered a 60-day stay of execution for Woodruff so he could testify in another case in which he was allegedly involved. He held up the executions of Jewell Eller and Charlie Garrett to give their lawyers time to prepare briefs for clemency hearings. The governor took no action to halt the scheduled executions of J. B. Beetles and William Davis.

Welfare Board Set to Act

County Replies To State Survey

The Richland county Child Welfare board has accepted the state's report on child welfare needs here "as constructive criticism and will attempt to remedy some of the faults," Mrs. Glenn C. Young, board secretary, said yesterday.

She pointed out that the board was still in its infancy, having been set up in January, 1946, and added, "we still have a lot of bugs to iron out."

A meeting has been called for next Friday, she said, to go over the 80-page report and make recommendations to the county commissioners.

She said that at no time have the commissioners refused financial assistance for the Children's home.

Mrs. Young praised the work of the Rotary club and other civic groups in providing facilities for the home. She said the Rotary club's program alone takes care of movies, Boy Scout activities, sewing lessons, the airplane club, recreation periods, nursery assistance and a tutoring plan.

HEAR INSPECTOR

Robert M. Baughman, safety fire inspector for the state, told a joint meeting of the commissioners the Child Welfare board and state officials at a meeting Thursday afternoon that it would be impossible to renovate the home to include fireproof structures.

"The Children's Home cannot be revamped into a fireproof features," he said.

Baughman was asked to speak to the group regarding fire-proofing by George Stelts, a member of the board.

Mrs. Virginia R. Ferguson, who directed the survey, told the Child Welfare council Thursday night that the home was not fireproof, but that it was "reasonably safe."

She pointed out that the board has been careful to provide fire escapes and had set up other fire precaution facilities.

Mrs. Young said the board since 1946 had provided the following items and equipment for the Children's home: a new kitchen stove, a new tractor, a new sink for the dining room, a station wagon, new mattresses and new linoleum for the entire home, fire extinguishers, electric roasters, a new gas stove, new wiring and transformers to eliminate fire hazards, new lockers for the girls, complete repairing and remodeling of locker facilities, new laundry equipment, and a new three-compartment sink for the kitchen in line with a recommendation of the State Sanitation department.

Urges Better Roads In Ohio

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The state highway department will have to put its roads in better shape if Ohioans are going to get all the advantages of state parks and public recreation spots, George B. Sowers, state public works director, said today.

Sowers, just back from a tour of lakes in the Muskingum Conservancy district, was full of praise for the recreational opportunities offered the people of Ohio. He was pessimistic, however, about how people were going to get to and from them.

Baku Grotto to Hold 'Guest' Dance Tonight

Baku Grotto will hold the second of its fall series of dances tonight in Grotto hall.

Man Reports $35 Robbery

A. U. Ridenour, 50 East Fourth street, told police last night he was robbed of $35 and a key case about 11:45 p.m. yesterday by two men at Fourth and Adams streets.

One man held him by the throat while the other rifled his pockets, Ridenour said.

An accordion valued at $500 was stolen from a parked car in a driveway off North Main street last night, police were told. The instrument is owned by Frank Miller, 859 Bowman street.

Simpson Band Stages Tag Day

Forty members of the John Simpson Junior high school band, assisted by members of the beginning band which is directed by Donald Tennant, participated in the band tag day today.

The crimson-and-navy uniformed students stationed themselves at downtown corners early this morning to sell band tags. The majorettes were out in uniform too.

The money raised today will be used to purchase new uniforms and equipment for the bands.

Amateur Radio Operators Conduct Emergency Tests

Members of the Mansfield Emergency Corps, a group of amateur radio operators, will conduct simulated emergency tests today and tomorrow.

During the tests a number of short-range radio stations will be set up at strategic points around Mansfield to provide local communications, and several high-powered, long-range stations will supply contact with distant points. The tests will be conducted with the view of perfecting a community plan to provide communication channels in case the regular communication facilities should fail.

One feature of the drill will be mobile radio stations operating from the automobiles of some of the participants, sending messages to tie into nation-wide network of amateur stations.

The local tests will comprise a portion of a series of tests to be conducted this week end over the nation. The success of the operation will be based on the speed and reliability of communication with other parts of the country. Emergency conditions will be simulated.

The local corps is led by James R. Anderson, emergency co-ordinator of the American Radio Relay League. Participants in the tests will include:

Anton P. Miller, Ernest Hogue, Richard Delong, Jack Barr, H. S. Garnes, Elnathan R. Hazlett, John R. Armstrong, Don V. McLaughlin, Adam Holzmiller, C. S. Odson, William Schurance, and Jake Erndt jr.

Asks Armies Be Moved From Berlin

West Now In Military Pocket

Is it not about time to ask ourselves whether our position in the Berlin dispute cannot be based on something stronger, sounder, and better than the formulae now in use? We are saying that we won't negotiate under duress but that the moment the Russians lift the blockade we are willing to negotiate on all German questions in a council of foreign ministers.

The trouble with this formula is that even if the Russians accepted it, we should still, as respects Berlin, be negotiating under duress. For Berlin will still be deep inside the Soviet zone of military occupation, and therefore the Russians will still control the land approaches to Berlin.

Therefore, though they now lifted the blockade, they would retain the power to impose it again. The fact that they had this power would hang, like the sword of Damocles, over the negotiations in the Council of Foreign Ministers, and in a very real sense we would be negotiating under duress: the duress of knowing that if the negotiations failed, we should be back with the blockade, the air lift, and the choice between appeasement and an ultimatum.

It is evident, therefore, that the formula for which we are now contending is not a solution of the problem of Berlin. It fails to take into account the real situation, which is that as long as Berlin is surrounded by the Red Army, our position in Berlin must remain high vulnerable.

IN A POCKET

Our right to be in Berlin may be absolute. But our ability to stay in Berlin will be contingent on how the Russians calculate the risks of exploiting their strategic superiority. And no verdict of the Security Council, no diplomatic formula agreed to now, can do away with the fact that Berlin is a military pocket well behind the front line of the Red Army.

Does it not follow that the real alternative to our surrendering Berlin to the Russians is to ask that all the occupying powers leave Berlin and the territory around it?

Granting that the withdrawal of all the armies from Germany cannot take place until the terms of a peace treaty have been negotiated—it does not follow that a withdrawal of the armies from the center of Germany to the periphery might not be arranged for the period during which a German peace treaty is being negotiated.

There is much to be said, it seems to me, for proposing that the armies, which now cover the whole of Germany, be withdrawn and concentrated on the edges of Germany: the Russians, for example, to the Oder River, the British and French to the Rhine, the Americans to the area around the port of Bremen. This would put an end to military government. It would put an end to the dangerous and proven futility of attempting to govern Germany by agreement among the occupying forces. It would liquidate completely and honorably the dangerous anomaly of Berlin. It would separate the armies, make it unnecessary for the generals to meet and quarrel, and it would isolate and insulate the troops.

An arrangement of this sort would be tantamount to a new armistice which recognized that the existing armistice has proved to be unworkable, that it has brought the victors to the verge of war. The new armistice would prepare the ground for the only settlement which is in fact possible: for an agreement on how the military occupation of Germany can eventually be ended.

M'Intyre, Charles Knight Will Be Added to Ohio Hall of Fame

COLUMBUS —(UP)— The names of the late Charles S. Knight, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal, and Columnist O. O. McIntyre will be added to the Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame, it was announced today.

Names of the two Ohio newspapermen, submitted during the summer in the 1948 revival of the Hall of Fame election, will be formally added to the Hall Roster at Ohio State University Nov. 5.

The Hall of Fame has been sponsored by the OSU school of journalism since it was originated in 1928 by the late Prof. Osman C. Hooper.

James M. Cox, publisher of the Dayton Daily News and other newspapers and former Ohio governor, will formally sponsor the name of Knight. That of McIntyre will be sponsored by Harold Wetherholt, publisher of the Gallipolis Tribune.

Mrs. McIntyre and John S. Knight, present publisher of the Beacon Journal, the Detroit Free Press, the Chicago Daily News and the Miami, Fla., Herald, will be guests at the ceremonies.

The names of Knight and McIntyre were submitted to the full panel of 70 judges after a subcommittee had voted on seven names it had considered. Both men received more than the necessary two-thirds vote.

The election was the first held since 1942 when the series was interrupted by the war.

Sen. Lucas Flays Dewey, Congress

Calls GOP Candidate 'Tool of Wall Street'

cident showed how Dewey would act under pressure. "When he was under pressure he blew his top. If he couldn't handle that how could he handle the biggest job in the country?" Lucas asked his audience.

RAPS ISOLATIONISTS

He charged that, if the isolationist Republicans had been in power, that Stalin would be in control of all of Europe. "And I wouldn't be here tonight, I'd be in Washington, helping appropriate sixty to seventy billion dollars for defense."

Lucas said he helped draw up the Democratic party plank at the convention, calling for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. "If the laboring man doesn't go to the polls and support Truman, then he will have been ungrateful," Lucas said.

"We must take the leadership. We must destroy isolationism in this country if we are going to have everlasting peace." Lucas said Truman had stopped communism in Europe through his advocacy of the Marshall Plan and by aiding Greece and Turkey.

He said Truman was voting for defense bills before the war as a senator, "but Dewey was then an isolationist." Lucas said Truman would prefer going down in defeat than be obliged to the special interests.

He said employment is at an all-time high. "People have money in the bank. Farmers are better off than ever. There are more cars, more refrigerators—more chewing gum and ice cream." The chewing gum statement brought a chuckle from the audience.

TRUMAN 'FIGHTING MAN'

He said Truman was taking the fight to the people. "That man has the biggest fighting heart of any man I've ever seen," Lucas asserted.

Levering charged that the Republicans are waging a loquacious campaign "shrouded in euphemistic platitudes and generalities."

"My opponent worked hand in hand with the 80th Congress which dealt the farmers some real body blows. This Congress did not confine its abuses to the laboring man, the teachers, the aged and the house-wife.

"My opponent approved the cut in appropriations for soil conservation and rural electrification," he asserted.

Levering said the people had suffered under the last congress and that now they have "a real choice to make at the polls in November." He said the choice was "between choosing a government for all the people or a government for the privileged few."

"I say the average workingman who has spent all his war-time savings and bonds is one week from the bread line while the big corporations are reaping profits at the rate of 70 per cent over what they were making in 1946."

"I believe that something can be done to provide decent housing for our veterans and working people.

"I believe that our crippled, aged and infirm can be given a decent social security program. My opponent and the 80th Congress didn't think so. They cut some one-million persons off the social security roles.

PROMISES PEACE EFFORTS

He said that on Bataan he promised the men with whom he served that if he ever got back he would do all in his power to prevent another Bataan — another Pearl Harbor."

He charged that his opponent voted against the fortification of Guam, and every defense measure before the war, including the draft.

Levering said that, if elected, "I shall strive to place leadership above politics and personal favor."

Another speaker was John H. Lamneck, of New Philadelphia, candidate for the Fifth district court of appeals.

Van Schoik spoke for the state ticket, replacing State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who was unable to come to Mansfield.

Calhoun introduced the local candidates, Fred W. Dill, for county commissioner; County Commissioner Guy F. Stewart, Harold Lutz, for prosecutor, Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning, E. P. Long, for sheriff, County Recorder D. D. Orewiler, Treasurer Charles C. Payne, Engineer Walter E. Rusk, Clifford L. Mitchell, for representative, and Carl J. Longwell, for state senator.

Ralph Lutz, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, presided.

Amima Members Hear Commissioner

Present health conditions in Mansfield provided the topic of Dr. Harry Wain's talk to the Amima club last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Dr. Wain's health commissioner of Mansfield and Richland county, also expressed his views on preventive measures over curative in modern medical practice.

Simpson Opens Two Rooms For Early-Arriving Pupils

By JOYCE MILLER and WILLIAM FORKNER

Students who come to school in bad weather before the 8:05 admittance bell may go to rooms 202 or 203. These rooms were opened by Principal H. J. Dotson so that students will have some place to wait in bad weather. Members of the faculty will be in charge. Those who come early are asked to go straight to these rooms and not to their lockers.

In the instrumental department, which is headed by Donald Tennant, the dance band is working hard on new numbers for the Dance Band dance in Simpson gym Nov. 19.

Simpson's regular band is practicing its Mansfield routine for the between-halves show at the Simpson-Appleseed game, Oct. 27.

Shirley Fisher has been appointed assistant to Supt. W. L. Miller's secretary, Mrs. Ruth Schambera.

Simpson's cooking classes are learning the principles of nutritious breakfasts by studying certain foods and preparing some of them. In the sewing classes most of the girls have finished a skirt and started a blouse.

The G. A. A. dance was postponed because no band was available.

The business staff of the Times is busy selling ads to pay expenses on the football programs to be sold at the Simpson-Appleseed football game.

USHER AT BREAKFAST

Four girls from Simpson will usher at the Community Fund kickoff breakfast Monday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel along with nine Appleseed girls. The Simpson girls are Shirley Pirrgo, Sally Smith, Faye Stahl, and Joyce Miller.

Wallace Firestone, wood shop instructor, reports that the new system of keeping the wood shop in order is working smoothly. A clean-up crew has been appointed and a lumber room management crew has been set up.

Movie of the week was "Little Miss Big." "Dark Mirror" starts Nov. 15 and ends Nov. 19.

Patsy Smith, John Knight, Margaret Rust and Yvonne Moore, students of Miss Fae Sotherland, art director at Simpson, are also studying with the Fine Arts Guild which meets every Saturday at Prospect park. Patsy Smith won a prize in the Fine Arts Guild show last year.

The faculty and students of Simpson wish to express their sympathy to Elizabeth Meihack at the death of her mother.

Cheerleaders led by "Cheerqueen" Vivian Uhl and dressed in Simpson's colors, orange and white, are now sporting their megaphones.

Home room 109, whose captain is Dolores Schneider, won the ninth grade tournament in a close race with 214, captained by Virginia Hullinger.

Seventh grade girls intramural volley ball tournament is being played off on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday noons next week. Home Room 111 won eighth grade championship from 213. Teams were captained by Nancy Snyder and Lillian Wharton.

Times sports editor, Tom McCullough, says that the Bulldogs and Pioneers are evenly matched, so look out for an exciting battle.

Simpson students attended an unexpected assembly Friday afternoon when Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Schroer spoke on life in Japan. They are missionaries and lived in the Orient for 20 years.

Columbus Inn Swept By Fire

COLUMBUS (UP)—Fire swept through Grandview Inn here early Friday, causing damage estimated at more than $60,000.

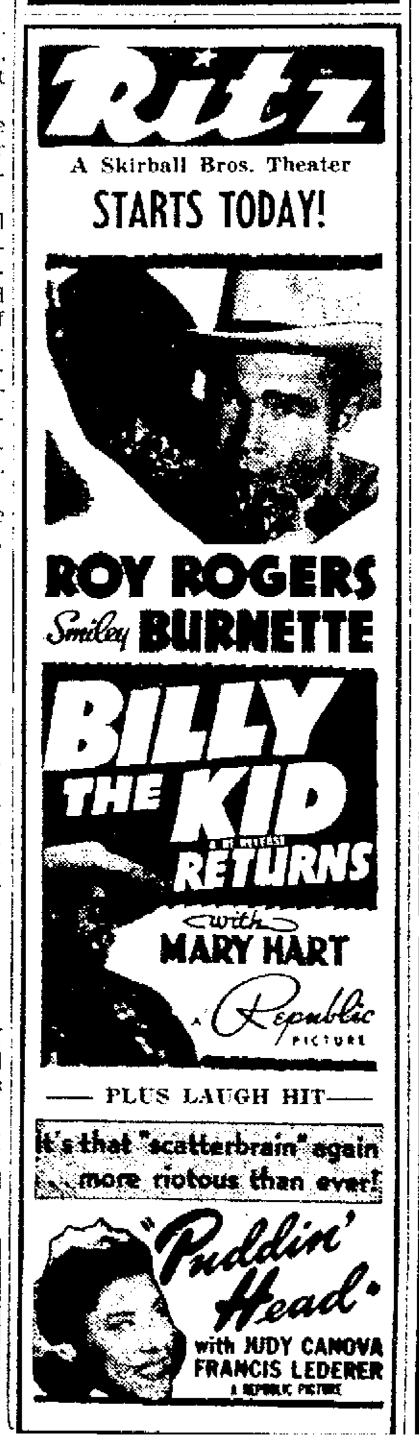

Most of the inside of the frame building housing the popular dining spot was gutted by a fire which Battalion Chief Earl Wedemeyer said was unusually stubborn. It apparently started in the inn's kitchen.

The night watchman, Sal Morella, escaped through the smoke-filled building to give the alarm.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4 If the number is less than 6, add 3 The result is your key number Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
